Dear Parents,

Welcome to our parent information night.

We are committed to the personal, emotional, and educational growth of each student.

The goal of this night is to provide you, the parents, an opportunity to access resources and connections to community services for your child.

Transitional times can be daunting. We are hopeful that the connections you make this evening will help you understand what is available and what preparations and steps you must take to ensure your child's success.

See you there.

“This is where it all begins. Everything starts here, today” David Nicholls
